As we have paid for the cutting and burning of the brush last year, we at present owe the M.D. of Battle River $35.00, which represents one-half the foreman's wages. The appointment was made by Lord Beaverbrook, minister of aircraft production.

Mr. Jim Wylie was a business visitor to Edmonton over the week end.

High School Dance Brilliant Affair

On Friday evening last, at the Masonic Hall, a very enjoyable time was had when a semi-formal dance, held by the pupils of Wainwright High School, wound up their activities for the season.

At nine o'clock the evening started out with a brisk Grand March, which put everyone in the spirit of things, and which was really a treat to see, what with the lasses all in their pretty gowns, and the gentlemen attired in their best.

After a lovely lunch had been served at midnight, a number of the girls acted out an amusing little skit, with Miss Rex Snyder putting everyone in its of laughter with her portrayal of an old maid school teacher, leading her group of students in their school songs.

After this small touch of humor, very enjoyable speeches were given by Miss Marion Lane as school president, and by the teachers, Mr. Meade, Miss Darrah, Mr. Sparling and Mr. Paton. At the end of the speeches, the dancing and merry-making continued until a late hour. The only thing to mar such a pleasant evening was the fact that the students found themselves bidding farewell to Miss Darrah, whom, we understand, is to leave us this year and whose loss will be keenly felt by students and teachers.

It is interesting to note that this dance, which was the first of its kind to be held by the high school, was such a huge success. Our heartfelt congratulations, executive, and our only hope is that you will continue to have many more such parties.

Music was supplied by Mrs. G. Glass and Messrs. A. Kent, E. Wallace and L. Parkhurst.—Contributed.

Ladies' Night at Canadian Legion

On Monday, June 18th, the Wainwright branch of the Canadian Legion, together with their families and friends, assembled in the Masonic Hall, where games and supper were enjoyed.

A bowling tournament took place, with a prize for the best lady and gentleman. These prizes went to Mr. and Mrs. F. Morris—for so things turn out in this world.

After a gorgeous supper, provided and served by the men, who received many plaudits for daintiness and efficiency, President Geo. Glass made a presentation of two framed buffalo and elk pictures to Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Prickleton, who are leaving in the near future for Jasper Park. He extolled the services of the honored guests and their contribution to the activities of not only the Legion but to other worth-while community projects and wished them on behalf of the gathering, prosperity, health and happiness.

Comrade Prickleton replied in well chosen and fitting words and expressed his appreciation of the gifts and his regret at being obliged to leave behind so many good friends and comrades.

Another pleasing duty of the President was to present Comrade Gordon Graham with a Past President's badge, to which the recipient made a very suitable reply.

As this meeting coincided with recruiting day in Wainwright the meeting was honored by the presence of Lt. Col. E. Pitman and Lt. Col. W. M. Wright, M.M., R.E.D.

Plans for Patriotic Day Going Ahead

Plans for the Patriotic Day on Wainwright's Birthday are now going ahead and from all reports it appears that July 1st will offer a wide variety of sporting events as well as a big midway and grandstand attractions throughout the entire day.

The use of the power grader has been procured from the town and the truckers are working to get the grounds in good shape for the sporting events.

Being a Patriotic Day, the committee is anxious to have the town and grounds well decorated and anyone who can assist by lending large flags for the occasion should get in touch with some of the members at once, so that a general scheme of decoration can be drawn up.

There will be refreshment booths on the grounds, with the usual lunch and sports day treats and the proceeds will all go for patriotic purposes.

Plan now to enter a team in the tug-of-war or to take part in the horsehoe pitching or bicycle race. Remember that entries for all sports events except horsehoes and tug-of-war must be sent to Kenn Trott not later than June 28th.

Attend Wainwright's Patriotic Day celebration and help to win the war!

Ford Inspects "Mass Production" Plane

Henry Ford is pictured here as he inspected a Curtiss P-40 pursuit plane which was flown to the Ford plant at Dearborn, Mich., to determine the possibility of turning it out by the mass production method.

Ford, stated whether he found the plane more complicated than he had expected, replied "No." Ford recently announced that given a free hand he could turn out 1,000 planes a day.

Popular Young Couple Married

A wedding of wide interest throughout the district took place on Monday evening last, when Georgina Beatrice, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Wiley, of Wainwright, became the bride of Russell Frederick, second son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Ganderton, also of Wainwright.

The ceremony, which was performed in the presence of immediate relatives only, took place at the home of the groom's parents at 7:30 p.m., the Rev. R. S. Stevens, D.D., officiating.

The young bride was charming in her blue gown of caroline crepe, set off in her arms a bouquet of mauve and yellow lilies.

Miss E. Gehring, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and chose for the occasion a becoming ensemble in rust.

Mr. Vaughan Ganderton supported his brother as best man. Little Barbara Joan Gehring, niece of the bride, made a sweet wee flower girl in her yellow silk dress.

Following the ceremony, a buffet luncheon was served, with a handsomely decorated tiered wedding cake holding a prominent place.

The happy young couple left on Tuesday for Calgary, where the groom has been called to report for duty in the dental corps, and the best wishes of the whole community go out to them for a happy life together.

Rev. H. D. Marr, of the Bible Society, will be speaking at the United church next Sunday morning and at St. Andrew's church in the evening. At the close of the evening service a business meeting of the Bible Society will be held in the Presbyterian church.

Mrs. Dick Headon, of Fabian, is a patient at the local hospital this week suffering from leg injuries which she received at her farm.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Wiley announce the marriage of their daughter, Georgina Beatrice, to Russell Frederick, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Ganderton, all of Wainwright. The wedding took place on Monday, June 17th.

Miss B. Carroll Guest at Shower

In honor of Miss Beatrice Carroll, a bride-elect of this month, a shower was held at the home of Mrs. Jack Carroll on Friday evening. Some 18 friends of this popular young lady were present to wish her happiness in her married life.

The evening was pleasantly spent in games and contests and later the guest of honor was presented with a large number of miscellaneous gifts, for which she expressed her appreciation.

A dainty lunch was served by the hostess before the gathering dispersed.

This Week's Stand g In Bicycle Contest

End of the second week in The Star's Bicycle Contest saw the leader, Parker Currie, increase his margin over his nearest opponents, and also saw some slight change in standings in the lower brackets. The second, third, fourth and fifth place contenders are all pretty close in a group, with only 50 points spread in the four places. Incidentally, any one of these four contestants still has an excellent chance of going into the lead in the race for the C.C.M. bike and while things will undoubtedly be somewhat quiet over the school examinations, we look for a considerable spurt in the effort at the commencement of the holidays. It is no secret that several of the contestants are planning a systematic canvass of towns and country immediately after school closes and we will be greatly surprised if the result of such drives does not appear in upsets throughout the standing.

Meanwhile, there is still plenty of time for new contestants to enter. A little effort on your part now may make you the proud owner of the fine modern C.C.M. bike, and in any case you are sure to be rewarded with fine cash bonuses for every subscription turned in. Can you give some more spending money? Start today on your big drive.

Here's the standing of the contestants after the close of the second week of the contest:

NEW HIGH MARK IN HALF-WITTED HILARITY

Only Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy can smother their prurient heat of fancy which makes up the greater content of "The Flying Deuces"—at the Elitte next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday—first of the Boris Morros productions for RKO release. They go through their antics for one of their best vehicles and the result is hilarious, judging from audience reaction at the preview.

The story, which will please Laurel and Hardy fans and then some, is a remake of the French "Les Aviateurs".

Searle Precipitation Report No. Eight

For the second week in succession a decided improvement has taken place in the moisture condition of the three Prairie Provinces, but this condition is still well below normal. Adding together the rains which fell last autumn during the months of August, September and October, and the precipitation which has occurred from April 1st to June 10th, inclusive, the moisture available to the growing crop for the three Prairie Provinces, as a whole, is now 77 per cent. of normal, as compared with 75 per cent. last week and 104 per cent. on June 10th a year ago.

In Alberta a slight decline has occurred, for the moisture condition is now 89 per cent. of normal, as compared with 91 per cent. a week ago and 98 per cent. on June 10th a year ago.

In Saskatchewan an improvement of approximately 10 per cent. has taken place during the week, for the condition is now 68 per cent. of normal, as compared with 58 per cent. a week ago and 113 per cent. a year ago.

In Manitoba the moisture condition has slightly improved, for it is now 89 per cent. of normal, as compared with 87 per cent. last week and 80 per cent. on June 10th a year ago.

A large area of west central and north central Saskatchewan still needs moisture badly, but the poor area is now smaller than it was a week ago. A large area in southern Saskatchewan is becoming decidedly better than normal and eastern and western Saskatchewan have improved from poor to fair. There are no longer any badly deficient moisture areas in Manitoba, but most of the northerly part of the province is still only fair, and could do with more rain. The western part of Alberta is either normal or better than normal, but with the exception of a few small districts, the whole of the eastern part of the province can only now be described as fair.

The rains which fell in the badly deficient areas of the West during the past two weeks arrived just in time to avert serious damage to the crop.

Conditions Ideal For Growing Crops

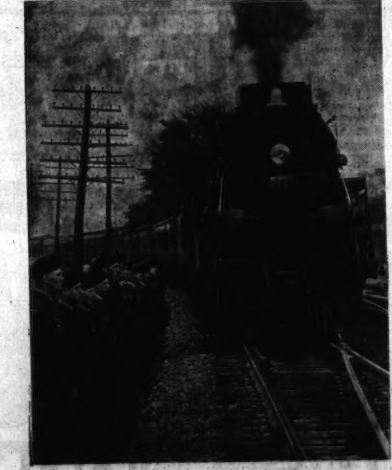

Crop conditions in all districts of Alberta are good, with the outlook promising. In the south eastern area of the province and in a small part of the Peace River district good general rains would be beneficial, but crops are not suffering. Many districts describe growing conditions as ideal.

Showery weather has occurred throughout the province during the past two weeks, with rainfall varying from a fraction of an inch to nearly three inches in the St. Paul area, where it was urgently required.

Growth of crops is strong and vigorous. In many districts, despite the lateness of seeding, wheat has almost reached normal development for the season.

Seeding is completed except for the sowing of grain for greenfeed and pastures and forage crops are satisfactory. Slight damage from grasshoppers and cutworms is reported from the south-east corner and the Grande Prairie districts respectively.

The Canadian War Effort

A weekly review of the developments along the home front.
Week of June 1-8

Summary.

By air aid on land, Canadian troops are ready and waiting to meet the supreme crisis of war.

Canadian destroyers are serving with the Royal Navy in United Kingdom waters. Units of the Royal Navy have taken their place in protecting Canada's Atlantic seaboard. By request of the British government, Canadian troops have been sent to the West Indies. They freed for service elsewhere British regular forces stationed in that area.

To speed up supply on air personnel for active service, a fighter squadron, equipped with aircraft, is to be dispatched overseas.

A number of pilots recently graduated from Camp Borden and intended as instructors for the Air Training Plan, are to be despatched overseas.

To meet the urgent demand for planes overseas, part of the equipment in use or on order for the Canadian Air Force for the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan, has been made available to the Royal Air Force.

Fighter planes being manufactured in Canada for the Canadian Government have been diverted to the use of the British Government.

Bombardiers ordered in April, 1939, were on their way to Canada from the United Kingdom. While the ship was at sea, the Canadian Government ordered her to turn about and make the aircraft available to Great Britain.

Hon. C. D. Howe, Minister of Munitions and Supply, to prevent delay in British Commonwealth Air Training Plan, arranged for the purchase of 4,000 to 5,000 airplane engines in the United States to replace those not now available from Great Britain.

James S. Duncan, Acting Deputy Minister of National Defence for Air, announced acceleration of the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan in light of current urgencies. These involved the earliest despatch of planes and personnel overseas. Efforts are enhanced to turn out pilots, air gunners and air observers in the shortest possible time.

It was announced that a steady flow of pilots and air crews generally will proceed overseas at short regular intervals from Canada. The men will augment the Royal Air Force.

Owing to mobilization of the 3rd and part of the 4th Divisions, C.A.S.F. camps, originally authorized for the non-permanent active militia units in June have been postponed.

Canada's output of planes scheduled at 1,028 for this year, may be exceeded. The program for next year, set at 1,800, will be enlarged also.

Orders for automobile equipment to the value of $13,000,000 were placed during the week.

Thirty-seven geological and topographical survey and exploratory parties have been assigned by the Geological Branch, Department of Mines and Resources, to map and investigate areas in every mineral producing province, the Yukon and the Northwest Territories. Particular attention will be paid to deposits of war minerals.

Munitions and Supply.

Mr. E. P. Taylor has been appointed to the Executive Committee of this Department. Hon. C. D. Howe, the Minister, has announced. Mr. Taylor, who is now serving without remuneration, is president of Canadian Breweries Ltd., Honey Dew Ltd., Orange Crush Ltd., and a director of the Excelsior Life Insurance Company. He will reside in Ottawa.

Mr. Chas. A. Banks has been appointed Canadian representative in England of the Department of Munitions and Supply. Mr. Howe announced. Mr. Banks is managing director of the Bullock Gold Drilling Ltd. and other mining companies. He is serving without remuneration. A distinguished engineer with outstanding professional record, Mr. Banks served as a Travelling Engineer with the Royal Engineers during the last war.

Close to 90 per cent. of the money expended by this department and its predecessors through war contracts has been or is being spent in Canada. About 5 per cent. of the total dollar value has been placed in England. The total contracts to the end of April were $193,000,000 in value.

During the past week the Department awarded 1,089 contracts having a value of $11,872,719. These included purchases of clothing, food, stoves, barrack and naval stores, aircraft supplies and mechanical transport.

Soon it is hoped to produce tanks and engines, 25-pounder guns, anti-tank and anti-aircraft guns, transporters for war planes by the further extension of the manufacture of war chemicals, the Minister has stated.

Purchase of equipment for the Third Canadian Division is well advanced. The department has placed an order for $1,500,000 covering air transport instruments.

Although the automobile industry in Canada is prepared to swing its whole productive capacity to war purposes if necessary, no such call has been made upon it yet. However, work has begun on a motor vehicle order for the Canadian Government by Ford and General Motors and equipment firms on work involving an expenditure of $13,000,000. This is in addition to the one for $13,000,000 placed on March 30.

Air Training Plan.

To prevent interference with the schedule of the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan, the Minister of Munitions and Supply, Hon. C. D. Howe, has arranged for the purchase, in the United States, of more than 4,000 engines to meet the deficiency caused by the sudden withdrawal of British supplies. This will insure the continuance of the plan on its original scale. Canadian planes will be built now to use United States engines instead of British ones. The Dominion's present output of 20 planes per week will be stepped up to 30 per week by the end of the year. The present schedule demands an output of 1,028 by December 1. It is hoped to exceed that total and to advance beyond the objective of 1,600 planes for 1941.

In a speech J. S. Duncan, the Deputy Minister of National Defence for Air stated that in accordance with the most critical need the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan had been accelerated. Not only was Number 112 Squadron to be sent overseas at once but other planes, pilots and men intended for service in Canada had been or would be despatched. Graduates from Camp Borden intended for instructors under the Air Training Plan, would be sent over-

Missouri Fur Trader Gave His Name To World's Biggest Game Preserve

At Jasper House in the Fur Trading Days, a fur trader of the early '70's leaves Jasper House in early winter with dog teams and sleds to trade furs. Indians in the Canadian Rockies; below, a section of Jasper House, showing the barred window and the legendary favorite vantage point where Jasper Hawes used to keep watch for the arrival of trappers. This picture was posed by the factor of the early '70's.

When the little Hawes boy was christened, somewhere in Missouri, more than a hundred years ago, no one dreamt that he would give his name to a great National Park far away in the Canadian Rockies, the biggest game sanctuary in the world. Jasper's future was unknown to the folk back in Missouri when he was a little fellow. Today, though his name is familiar to thousands of travellers from all parts of the world, his past, his whole life, is a mystery.

His name was Jasper. He was a clerk in charge of one of the Northwest Company's posts in the Rockies. Beyond that, little is known about him. He may have been Hawes, or Howes. It may have been England he came from and not Missouri, after all.

Whatever his story, Jasper left his name behind in a mountain playground that stretches 4,200 square miles in a lake and a town; and in Jasper Park Lodge, the famous summer resort hotel owned and operated by the Canadian National Railways. It is unfortunate that Jasper Hawes did not keep a diary, for he knew such men as David Thompson, who traded furs, fought the Indians and explored the great north-west. Thompson camped one winter on the Columbia Icefield, the greatest icecap outside the Arctic Circle and one of the world's scenic wonders. He explored at least two of the three big rivers whose sources are in this 110 square miles of glaciers and snow. He traced the Columbia to its mouth in the Pacific and followed the Saskatchewan, which runs into Hudson Bay at the Atlantic. He knew something of the third, too, the Athabasca, which empties into the Arctic.

For thousands of years, the Columbia Icefield kept its splendor to itself. Then a few adventurers like Thompson found it out. Now it is open to the world. On Dominion Day, a new motor road, the Columbia Icefield Highway, connecting Jasper and Banff, will be formally opened. For the past two years this road has been open from the town of Jasper to the great Athabasca Glacier, centre of the icefield in Jasper National Park, but on July 1st, the completed highway through to the South will be made available to tourists.

area immediately. Other statements made by the Deputy Minister indicated additional speed in construction, enlargement and improvement of airfields and buildings.

Trade and Economy.

During the week the Minister of Trade and Commerce announced the sale to Great Britain of 50,000,000 bushels of wheat. The sale was made direct by the Wheat Board to the Buying Agency at a price considerably above the market. No further details as to price were given. The Minister declaring it was not in the public interest to do so.

By Order in Council, 75 per cent. of the surplus of canned apples and 50 per cent. of the surplus of evaporated apples taken over by the Government from Nova Scotia producers have been offered to the British Government, without charge or cost, other than freight. The balances have been offered to provincial governments for relief purposes.

With the Forces. Prime Minister Mackenzie King disclosed in the House of Commons that since the invasion of Holland and Belgium and during the battle of Flanders, Canadian troops in England from more than one occasion, have been at embarkation points under orders to join the British Expeditionary Force. During the Flanders battle General A. G. L. McNaughton, with some officers of his staff, carried out a personal reconnaissance of the battle area.

With an invasion of the British Isles a possibility, Canadian troops on active service in England are being employed in the way which it is believed will best serve the defence of British shores. Should a fresh field be sent into France, Canadians will be ready to join the B.E.F.

In co-operation with British military forces, a contingent of Canadian soldiers was sent to the British West Indies, in order to free for service elsewhere regular British forces stationed in that area. The contingent was conveyed part of the way by ships of the Royal Canadian Navy.

Canadian naval forces are also seeing active service overseas. Certain destroyers of the R.C.N. are co-operating in war duties with units of the Royal Navy in British waters. Units of the Royal Navy have taken over duties of these destroyers on Canada's Atlantic seaboard.

Canada's aerial forces are also assuming their share of the work overseas. A second R.C.A.F. squadron has landed in England. Pilots, trained to become instructors in the Empire Training Plan, have proceeded overseas.

The increased tempo of warfare has resulted in activities on the home front. Recruiting for the Third and Fourth Divisions, C.A.S.F., is proceeding throughout the Dominion. The Minister of National Defence has announced the units selected for inclusion in the Third Division and the units of a Fourth Division.

Meanwhile, recruiting for the Veterans' Home Guard is also proceeding with a great number of ex-service-men applying for enlistment. Arrangements for recruiting were left to District Officers Commanding each military district. Priority of selection is as follows: 1. Veterans who served in an actual theatre of war. 2. Veterans who served in the United Kingdom only. 3. Veterans who served in Canada only.

Announcement was made during the week that Squadron Leader Hugh Ronald Stewart, personal assistant to the Chief of Air Staff since the outbreak of war, has been selected to fill the new post of Air Secretary in the Department of National Defence for Air. Squadron Leader Stewart is a veteran of the Great War, during which he saw service with the Royal Flying Corps and the No. 10 Artillery Observation Squadron in France.

In connection with the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan, it was announced that the Elementary Flying Training School in London, Ontario, would open on June 24, two months ahead of schedule. The London Elementary Flying Training School Limited has been incorporated under the Dominion Companies Act to operate this school. Besides the instructors and ground crew, a staff of 90 civilians will be employed at this school.

ROBBING THE SOIL OF ITS FERTILITY

We are often reminded of our base origin and that we owe to Mother Earth the ultimate restoration of the organic matter and minerals she has loaned up for the duration of our lives. By the same token the fertilizer industry is based on the need for restoring to the soil the elements of fertility, which have been removed by continuous cropping and consumption of the produce by animals, most of which in the inevitable cycle are consumed by man. Yes, the soil has been robbed and especially of phosphorus which, with lime, constitutes the essential part of the skeleton.

Consequently, phosphorus—stated in terms of available phosphoric acid—predominates in commercial fertilizers. Crop failures are due more often to deficiency of phosphorus than to shortage of any other plant food substance. Phosphorus is an important constituent of milk and is concentrated in the seeds of plants; hence its value for pastures and grain.

HIGH SPEED MACHINERY
FOR HIGH SPEED TRACTORS

Extensive experimental work on the effect of speed to farming machinery has been conducted at the Dominion Experimental Station at Swift Current, Saskatchewan, writes G. N. Denike. The results indicate a very marked increase in draft or power required to pull slow speed tillage implements at these higher speeds. Every increase in speed of operation causes a proportionately greater increase in power required, which makes it necessary to work at a shallower depth or cut down on the size of implement used.

The experiments have shown definitely that high speed implements are essential to an economical set-up where high tractor speeds are used. The draft of the play with quickturn mouldboards, designed for speeds of two to three miles an hour, increases by as much as thirty per cent. from 2.5 to 3.5 miles per hour, while the use of slowturn mouldboards, designed for the higher speeds of 4.5 to 6 miles per hour will result in only a 15 per cent increase of draft at 5.5 miles per hour over that of quickturn boards at 2.5 miles per hour. The effect of using slow speed implements at high speeds is particularly noticeable on the resulting tillage work. Practically all tillage implements are pulverizing machines, designed to do just the correct degree of pulverization or soil disturbance at a definite speed with the result that higher speed increases the pulverization to a disastrous degree. Machines designed for high speed operations will give the desired degree of tillage as well as stand up better under high tractor working speeds.

The advantages of increased speed were brought out forcibly by these experiments where the correct combination of tractor and implement was tested. Maximum economy can be secured from farm power only when it is operating as near maximum load as possible, in any gear. Increased speed results in either a greater acreage covered per day or in lower overhead by reducing the size of equipment necessary to do a given amount of work per day.

Seeding and harvesting work may be done in a very satisfactory manner without change of equipment at the higher speeds. The seed drill does a better job of seed distribution at the speeds above 4.5 miles per hour than below this speed. Seeding with the standard drill equipped with single or double disc furrow openers has proven satisfactory at speeds of 6 to 6.5 miles per hour.

High speed combines with cutting bars from 42 inches to 6 feet in width selling at from one-third to one-half the price of larger slow-speed machines result in practically equal daily acreage covered at considerable saving per acre and greatly reduces the equipment overhead.

The use of slow-speed machinery with high speed tractors results in excessive wear to the equipment, uneconomical use of power and produces very unsatisfactory and even disastrous tillage, seeding or harvesting results. The correct combination of high speed implements and tractor will produce desired farm work at reduced overhead and operating cost with the additional advantage that work may be completed at the correct time.

HAY FEVER

Hay fever can be cured. The larger number of cases are caused by pollen from windborne pollinated plants, including certain grasses, weeds, especially ragweed, and trees. Flowering plants such as the rose, dandelion and goldenrod cannot be blamed. Certain foods, powders, animal dandruffs and feathers may act as causes. But everyone does not contract hay fever. It occurs in persons with an inherited sensitivity to one or other of the causes. Over 80 per cent. of persons who suffer from hay fever or asthma have inherited a sensitivity to the various agents.

Chief Causes:

- (1) Grasses, such as timothy, red top, blue grass and others.
- (2) Trees such as the cottonwood, oak of many species.
- (3) Weeds, of which the chief offender is ragweed. It is said that 70 per cent. of all hay fever victims in America owe their trouble to common ragweed and related species.

Hay Fever Seasons: Grasses and trees as a rule, cause attacks in the spring and early summer, whereas weeds are the cause of late summer and early fall attacks.

In Canada, the common ragweed, the chief offender, is found at its worst in the southwestern peninsula of Ontario, and almost equally so in the rest of settled Ontario and southern Quebec. Through all the sparsely settled north, from Gaspe to Rainy River and even on the open prairie, the ragweed found is usually the re-

BAD NEWS

FOR HERR HITLER

THE last time Canadians fought a war we had one big economic strength—wheat. We still grow the best wheat in the world. But now we are also among the world's leaders in many types of manufactures and in metal and forest products. This variety of production makes Canada economically stronger than in 1914. It is bad news for Herr Hitler.

The textile industry provides employment for one in every five Canadian industrial workers. And textiles stand second among all the Dominion's industries in wages paid each year.

Dominion Textile's plant employees earn 22.7% more per hour than in 1929, while price lists are 16.2% lower.

EDUCATION

This is the time of year generally dreaded by school students—the time for examination of the knowledge and information they have acquired during the term just concluding. To some students a final examination is just another minor event, but to others it is a trial and a torment, something to be dreaded and dreamed about. The tendency in Alberta is away from term-end tests and towards periodical examinations throughout the term, and this system seems to be more equitable all round.

It is a known fact that the nervous strain induced by final examinations towards teachers and pupils have been working all year is harmful to some students. The unaccustomed funeral quiet in which they attempt to write down their knowledge, the last minute cramming and worrying are not the best conditions under which to work. And, too, some examiners seem to take pride in picking out obscure topics on which the question the students.

However, for better or worse, exam time is here again for the hundreds of pupils and success is wished to each and every one of them.

CARRY ON, CANADA!

Monday morning last brought to Canadians news of the worst blow yet struck against the Allied cause by the "Hitlerite" forces of Germany. The news was to the effect that France, after weeks of terrific punishment which saw her Channel ports taken over by the enemy, her capital city under the swastika, her supposedly impregnable Maginot Line outflanked and her northern provinces overrun by Nazi legions, had decided to sue for peace. Following a change in the government, emissaries were sent to ascertain upon what terms a victorious Hitler would call off his troops and agree to peace.

Canadians

Little of condemnation can be uttered for this nation which, in the last few weeks, has taken blow after blow as the German war machine swept through Belgium to invade northern France and then pour southward to capture Paris itself and many other less-important cities. It is obvious, however, that the crumbling of the French resistance brings to Britain and the rest of the Empire an added responsibility to carry on the fight.

In the days which lie ahead there is no room for doubts and fluctuations. The people of Great Britain have rallied behind their government to turn the "tight little island" into a fortress which will be capable of repelling any attempted invasion. Huge sacrifices of men, money and machines will be demanded and made before the war is brought to the only conclusion which Britons will accept—the defeat of Germany and the overthrow of her rulers. Can we, on this side of the Atlantic, show less determination, less solidarity, less willingness to sacrifice?

In the days which are to come, let our slogan be: "Carry On, Canada!"

Canadian Minesweeper Foils Attempt to Scuttle Ship

An attempt on the part of the crew of the Italian freighter Capo Noli to scuttle the ship in the St. Lawrence river was foiled by the Canadian minesweeper Brasso d'Oro which had shadowed the Italian vessel from Montreal just before Italy declared war on the Allies. The Capo erfuous hair, will become an increasing problem for warm weather increases its growth, even with some women not normally subject to it.

Noli's crew set her afire and ran her aground when the Brasso d'Oro foiled the attempt to burn the ship and took the crew prisoners. The bow of the Capo Noli, showing the damage by the fire, is shown right, with the Canadian vessel shown in the background, top.

Readers ask: "Can this blemish be permanently removed?" The best method is, of course, electrolysis treatment, which must be done by competent and expert operators to be really effective and harmless. There is, too, a special wax which is simple to use and which helps to retard the growth. It is a slower process but can be done in one's own home.

Many correspondents ask if peroxide curls growth. Peroxide won't affect the growth in any way. It is simply a bleaching agent. If you have only a slight growth on your face, a bleach is probably all you require, so try this one: Mix three tablespoons of peroxide with six drops of ammonia. If your skin is very tender, add another tablespoon of peroxide. Apply with a clean piece of absorbent cotton and allow to dry on the face.

Many women believe that soaps and creams cause superfluous hair. Really good creams and soaps will never cause hair to grow, but you can be quite free from worry on this score by always washing with gentle palmolive soap and using Three-Purpose cream.

Write to me for confidential advice, enclosing four one-cent stamps for my booklet on Beauty Care. Address: Miss Barbara Lynn, Box 75, Station B, Montreal, Que.

MAYFIELD

The softball team is in full swing now, the boys having played four games. Two of these were with Hope Valley, each team winning one and losing one and the other two were against Gilt Edge, the Mayfield boys taking both of these. A little support and encouragement from the residents of Mayfield would go a long way to help the boys win all the games, so just turn out to see the next game and if it doesn't put more life into the boys.

Only One Big Contest

Last summer there was a water shortage in a town where I was living. I happened to be chatting with my neighbor who was shaving, and I noticed how careful he was to use very little water.

"It seems sort of silly for you to be so conscientious," I remarked.

"They don't make any difference in the final result," he said, "but they make a lot of difference to me."

He said that when he graduated from college, a quarter of a century ago, there was a great deal of popular emphasis upon so-called "social service." Science had begun to introduce wonderful new inventions for increasing human happiness. Men were stirred by the hope of a quick millennium. Young people graduated with the notion that a few years of earnest effort would transform the world.

My friend was one of the most eager of the reformers. He organized, and voted, and agitated, and did all the things that he should. But nothing happened. The good causes for which he cast his vote were defeated. Human nature showed a discouraging unwillingness to change. "I went through a period of deep disillusionment," he said. "I thought to myself, what's the use of doing anything when one's single effort seems so futile? One day while I was in this mood I discovered these words of Socrates:

"I, therefore, consider how I may exhibit my soul before the judge in a healthy condition. Whereas, disregarding the honors that most men value, and looking to the truth, I shall endeavor in reality to live as virtuously as I can; and when I die, to die so. And I invite all other men, to the utmost of my power; . . . to this contest, which, I affirm, surpasses all contests here."

"That flashed across my mind like a bolt of lightning," my friend continued. "It clarified everything. I realized that I am not responsible for the success or failure of any good cause. All I am responsible for is my own best effort in that cause. Whether my vote be effective or not; whether the amount of water I can save will make any difference—these are not the questions.

"The only question is: Am I doing my best?"

This Can't Be the Goal!

I remember the Christmas when my father presented me my first watch—a big silver affair that he himself had carried for years. I was ten years old, and the gift amazed me. It had never occurred to me that I should ever own a watch until I was twenty-one.

I remember how my wife and I saved up patiently to buy our first car—a second-hand Ford. I remember our first antique, which we loved for months before we could finally acquire it. And the joy of seeing a savings account grow slowly; and the thrill of building a library, one book at a time.

Now the kids smash up a dozen watches before they are six. And they start life with cars and with furniture; and at twenty they have rushed through all the emotional experiences that lasted us leisurely through forty years.

Don't mistake me. I'm a booster for the new generation. They are healthy, direct, and fine. Only sometimes I wonder—

I wonder when, on my way home at night, I pass a big house in which lives one of New York's famous neurologists. It's an expensive house, paid for by nerves. Limousines are always stacked up in front of it.

It would seem almost as if the prize of life in America is to own a limousine and park it in front of a nerve specialist's door. Every one seems to be racing to get there.

HELPING THE TOURIST

Helps CANADA

EVERY year well over 10,000,000 tourists visit Canada from the United States. They spend some $250,000,000 in the Dominion. Canada's tourist trade has become one of the most important sources of the country's national income. Under stress of war, American tourist dollars are vital in providing needed exchange. Canada's Chartered Banks materially assist in promoting this valuable trade. Over 3,000 branch offices provide the tourist with familiar banking services throughout the Dominion—often in the most remote areas. At any of these branches travellers' cheques are cashed, drawings under letters of credit negotiated, money exchanged, tourist information gladly furnished by managers and staff. By friendly, courteous treatment and efficient service, Canada's Chartered Banks add to the warmth of welcome and encourage the stranger within our gates to return another year.

In war, as in peace, Canada's Chartered Banks maintain, uninterrupted, all their services to depositors, farmers, manufacturers, exporters—facilitating the nation's business—looking forward to peace with freedom as the only sure basis for enduring prosperity.

Here's How Hot Summer Sun Will Heat Homes

AVERAGE DAILY MAXIMUM TEMPERATURE
AUGUST

Based on the records of about 600 stations

This Twenty Year "Heat Map" Shows Where Home Insulation Against Summer Sun Will Be Most Needed

Here's how hot the exterior of your home will probably get during the month of August.

And that may mean hot, sticky interiors in the daytime and uncomfortable, sleepless nights—unless your home is properly insulated against the summer sun's burning rays.

The map is based on 20-year averages compiled by 600 recording stations of the United States Weather Bureau. Nine-tenths of the country, it shows, will have peak daytime temperatures of 80 to 110 degrees, and a good 25 percent of the country will average 95 degrees during the month.

But no part of the country will escape the August sun. Even roofs in northern Minnesota and Maine will heat up to 100 degrees or more, radiating this super-heat into the rooms below, until walls, ceilings and furniture become charged with it.

That is why uninsulated houses become so unbearable during a hot summer—for every square foot of outside wall and roof is storing up heat and releasing it slowly and continuously into every room, both day and night.

Like a giant radiator, the ceiling throws off its excess heat in parallel rays that are absorbed by all objects in their paths. That is why a person frequently feels warmer lying down in bed than when standing, for a prone body offers a greater horizontal area to absorb these radiated heat rays. When standing, however, only head and shoulders absorb these rays.

But radiant heat is not the only cause of excessively hot houses. Sun heat, passing through unshaded walls like water through a sieve, warms the still interior air until it is frequently many degrees warmer than outdoors. The discomfort caused by this dead, over-heated air might easily be avoided by proper insulation installed in side walls and second floor ceiling.

But insulation performs a dual function, for it not only prevents the passage of heat from the outside during the summer, but also prevents its passage from the inside during the winter, making for substantial fuel savings that are frequently equivalent to 25 per cent of the normal cost of fuel.

AMONG THE OLD-TIMERS

"REMINISCERS OF OTHER DAYS"

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

Mr. Hugh Wolfe left recently with a carload of fine horses for the east. He expected to dispose of them in Sudbury, Ont.

Mrs. A. Wheaton left on Monday to holiday with relatives in Boston, Mass.

Mr. W. Bowen is still confined to his bed through illness.

The new gasoline station at Hugh's Hardware is quite pretentious in character—it being the latest electric-lighted, self registering type.

Miss Hazel Brunker left for Vancouver at the week end where she will again take up nursing duties.

An interesting ceremony was performed at St. Luke's church on Sunday, when the infant twins of Mr. and Mrs. J. Denoncourt were baptized. Mr. and Mrs. L. O'Reilly and Mr. and Mrs. W. Goulet were the godparents for wee Gladys and Glenn.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Yeager are spending their annual holidays in Hamilton, Ontario.

Having received medical attention in Calgary for the past five months, Mr. O. Raham returned to town this week.

In a beautifully decorated church, an epoch-making event in the religious life of the Dominion took place in the former Grace Methodist church, when the inaugural services of the United Church of Canada were held. Rev. G. Pybus, the pastor, conducted both the morning and evening services. The names of 111 members were read out for the new church.

To visit with her mother for several weeks, Mrs. Fred Lepper left for Victoria on Tuesday.

On Wednesday evening Miss Rita Valieu was guest of honor at a picnic supper at House Lake, prior to her departure for New Westminster, B.C., where she has obtained employment. Games and a sing-song were enjoyed. A small gift was presented with sincere good wishes of the picnicers. Those present were: Miss Rita Valieu, Mr. and Mrs. R. Valieu, Misses Irene Perkins, Myrtle Baker, Marcelle Plater, Marie Perkins, Helen Hill, Ruth Storey, Peggy Challenger, Lexie Morrison and Messrs. Jack Perkins and Glenn Valieu.

The regular meeting of the Ladies' Aid was held at Mrs. P. Patterson's on Thursday afternoon last, with a good attendance. Preparations for the annual picnic on July 17th were discussed. At the close of the business discussion Mrs. Armstrong was presented with, a parting gift in appreciation of her willing assistance to this community during her residence in Wainwright. Mrs. Connahan and Mrs. Patterson served a dainty lunch.

EDGERTON

It is hard to believe that, after Friday next, we shall be heading towards winter again, with the longest year past. So much has happened in the first six months of this year of grace—or disgrace—that it is quite within the bounds of possibility that the war may be over before the end of the year, even if week-end news bulletins were particularly disappointing. We must and shall win, in spite of many ugly rumors being spread by "croakers"—local and otherwise.

Several of our young men reported at the Wainwright recruiting station on Monday, June 10th, and most of them are now in training. The following were all accepted: R. Gilbert, G. Bullymore, R. Snyder, D. Sawyer, Ted Pawsey, A. Pawsey and R. Ayers, while W. Robertson and G. Mitchell were rejected, the former on account of faulty vision and the latter because of a back injury received several weeks ago.

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Davis motored to Edmonton on Wednesday afternoon last, to spend the holiday there. Madame Foyal—Mrs. Davis' mother—returned with them early Friday morning, and will spend a short time here before holidaying at the west coast.

At a vestry meeting held Wednesday last in St. Mary's (Ang.) Rectory plans were made for a garden party to be held June 27th on the grounds of Mr. and Mrs. P. S. Pawsey. It is understood that the men are taking full charge of everything, thus reversing the usual order of things in affairs of this kind. We feel sure that the ladies are truly appreciative of this noble gesture on the part of the men-folk—appreciation somewhat tinged with curiosity, we hear.

Mrs. George Sawyer and Miss M. Mitchell were visitors to the Robert Leggett home in Wainwright last Thursday, returning on the local on Friday.

Miss Ruth Pawsey has cut short her vacation to take up new duties at the Vermilion hospital, and left for that point on Friday, returning on Saturday, however, when she learned that her brother Ted was home on leave, in order to spend a few hours with him.

The High School pupils staged a banquet and dance at the school Friday last, and judging from fragments of conversation we have heard concerning the affair, it was a huge success. To round out the evening, the majority of the party drove out to a dance at Bloumont in time to take in the second half of the festivities there.

Several of the new recruits were at home for a long week end. Those we have met are Ted Pawsey, Ray Snyder, Gordon Bullymore, Raymond Ayres and Dud Sawyer. One and all speak very highly of the treatment they are receiving during training.

Gilbert Mitchell returned to his work in Vancouver last Wednesday, following his rejection by three Army Medical Boards. We understand that he was bitterly disappointed, also somewhat out of pocket to boot, but was very grateful that his job had been held open for him. We really feel for you, "Mitch".

Phil Pawsey, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Pawsey, was taken suddenly ill Saturday last while driving his sister Ruth back to Vermilion. Fortunately they were quite close to Wainwright and Ruth hurried him to the hospital, where an immediate appendectomy was performed. Monday morning's report was that his condition was entirely satisfactory. We hope he will continue to improve and wish him a speedy return to health.

A Massey-Harris dealer convention was held in Wainwright on Tuesday last, when approximately 20 dealers from the surrounding district, as well as company officials from Edmonton, were present.

HEARTS WALKING

Mrs. Harry Pugh Smith

Janet had said she had to pick up her brother at the club, which happened to be true, but not the whole truth. When she borrowed Jim's roadster for the afternoon she promised to collect him later. However, it was useless to call for Jim before dark.

"But I couldn't stay on at Priscilla's as if I were trying to sneak in on the dinner party," she muttered.

It was pure coincidence that she happened to be passing the smart apartment building in which her sister had been living for a year and a half.

"I'll go up and trade my tale of woe for Berenice's," Janet decided with a rueful grin.

Berenice was twenty-two. She had fallen desperately in love with Bill Carter when she was nineteen and married him two months later. Bill had just secured his first job, selling radio advertising. His salary was small. At first they had had to live in two housekeeping rooms and Berenice was compelled to budget rigorously but they had been tremendously in love. Janet's heart ached when she remembered how radiantly happy Berenice and Bill had been that first year before Bill had a raise in salary and they moved to the new efficiency apartment on Wilshire Boulevard.

"Who is it?" asked Berenice sharply when Janet knocked.

"Do I have to give a countersign?" inquired Janet.

"Oh, it's you," murmured Berenice, not too graciously.

"You'd think you were afraid of the police," remarked Janet.

She knew quite well of what Berenice was afraid. There was a bridge table set up in the middle of the living room. Appended to each corner were chromium trays in which stood bedewed and partially emptied highball glasses. The three women loitered back in their chairs held lighted cigarettes. Janet had met them all at various times. They also lived in the apartment building and, like her sister, had more leisure than anything else.

"Berenice never draws an easy breath when we're up here for fear friend husband will walk in," May Shelton explained to Janet. "You'd think it was the dark ages the way she lets that guy cramp her style."

"There's just enough ginger ale for another highball, Janet, if you want one," she suggested.

"Janet doesn't indulge," put in Berenice quickly.

May Shelton tuttered. "Don't tell

Janet winced. "And I used to think that breeding and the quality of your grain are what counts," she remarked bitterly.

"They are," said her mother.

"Oh, no, they're not," protested Janet. "No one cares how vulgar you are inside if you can afford to go to expensive schools and run with fashionable crowds. Priscilla Leigh would double-cross her best friend but she'll be the most popular diva this season because her dad gives her lots of spending money."

"I think," said Anne slowly, "that Henry is generous with his children about money because it's all he has to give them."

"You could have married him, couldn't you?"

Anne smiled. "He left that impression."

"But you preferred a struggling young physician?"

Anne's freshly colored face sobered. Janet was more like her mother than either of the other children. Both she and Anne had firm, dark eyes and lustrous dark hair. Anne was a slender as her daughter, and unless very tired she looked much too young to have a son of twenty-four.

"Yes," she said. "I distinctly preferred your father. You see, although Henry was well on his way to his first hundred thousand at that time, he was anything except a romantic suitor." She laughed softly. "I can't tell you what a relief it was when your father and I announced our engagement and Henry abandoned the pursuit."

"And then Mrs. Leigh caught him on the rebound?"

"More or less."

"She was his stenographer, wasn't she?"

"She was very pretty in those days," said Anne wistfully. "Quite as gorgeously blond as Priscilla."

"And how she has got on!"

good going over with a bundle of sticks," muttered Jim, but he still did not meet Anne's eye.

"Hi, Jim!" exclaimed a small piping voice from the direction of the rear porch. "Come and get me!"

"You bet!" cried Jim.

The interruption ended a disagreeable tension. Anne detected relief in Jim's face as if he was glad of an excuse to leap up from the table and around the disturbing topic of Miss Helen Sanders.

He got down on all fours and when with some assistance Danny mounted, his steed proceeded to buck and cavort around the dining table to Danny's vast delight. He was hiccoughing with laughter and Jim had about run out of breath when Danny's mother came to the rescue.

"I don't need to ask if my son is here as usual, making a nuisance of himself. You can hear him down the block," said Cathy Wood in her low, sturred voice.

Jim plopped Danny up and swung him high into the air. "Tell your old lady, Sonny, that the only thing we'd like better is twins just like you."

Janet was gazing curiously at Cathy as a mother. She was only twenty. Sometimes Cathy looked like a mere child. She had been left an orphan when she was fifteen. She had, she said, slept on park benches and washed dishes in cheap restaurants before she secured a place in the chorus of a third rate road show. The company made brief stands on when the profession labels the tank circuit.

"You remember the theatrical couple in the play 'Lightning'?" asked Cathy. "The ones who got married in Peoria and it rained? Something like that happened to Danny's father and me. He was a chorus man and neither of us had any folks and it moved all that week and everybody was blue. It was anything for a change."

They were married and the company gave them a wedding supper on the stage after the show. Dan was a good kid, but he was not strong and he never was much of a dancer. When business grew worse he would undoubtedly have been let out, except by that time Cathy was expecting a baby and the manager felt sorry for both of them.

"I worked up to the last two weeks because we needed the money for the hospital bill," Cathy explained. "Of course, the company had to go on to the next stand. Danny cried when he left me. Maybe he had a hunch. But he went because his job looked like the most important thing on earth to us right then. He wrote me every day to hurry and get well. He said he was dying to see his son. I didn't know he was actually dying until I got the telegram."

"You see, he caught a heavy cold. He should have been in the hospital himself. But he went on dancing every night in order to send me the money. He went on even after he was delirious. He was trying to do a carnival when he fainted. He was carried off. It was pneumonia and he hadn't a chance."

For six months Cathy had been leaning on the door of the local night club. The salary was not large but she did not have to go to work. It was the evening and she was finished shortly after twelve. She had a room in the flat across the hall with an old German couple. Grandma Bauer was glad to keep an eye on Danny when his mother was away. Cathy paid extra for this service and for kitchen privileges.

"She's such a game kid," thought Jim, now staring at her over Danny's golden head.

"Come on, Sonny, time for bed," warned Cathy.

"Want me to carry you over and put you in your crib, Sonny?" suggested Jim gently.

Danny snuggled his cheek against Jim. "Yes, please."

"I'll drive you down to the club, Cathy," Jim went on.

Anne saw the light in Cathy's violet eyes before she remembered to veil them with her short black lashes. "I don't want to put you to any trouble, Jim," she said softly.

"Sno trouble," said Jim. "It's right on the way to the office."

"I forgot, Jim," interrupted Janet as he turned toward the door. "We are supposed to take me to the dance tonight."

Jim stopped short. "The heck I am! What's happened to that boy friend of yours? We never used to be able to stop for him around this place."

Anne caught her breath. Janet glanced at her defiantly, and she was Jim. "Gordon broke a date with me for Priscilla, if you want to know, but you needn't take me to the dance. I'll live without it."

Jim departed carrying Danny, whose small head was drooping with fatigue. However, before Jim left to drive Cathy over to the night club he came out upon the Bauer back porch which was separated from his own merely by the landing of the rear staircase, and called out to Janet.

"I'll be back in time to do up for the dance, Jan, old thing. Get my white flannels out, there's a good girl, and see if you can locate a decent shirt for me."

Jim Phillips, that same evening, stood outside one of the wide French doors opening off the Country Club lounge onto a second verandah. From his point of vantage he could observe without being observed.

He tried to fasten his gaze elsewhere, but he was unable to turn it from the scintillating person of Miss Helen Sanders. Howard Leigh was dancing only with Miss Sanders.

As a rule Howard did not choose to carry his rudeness too far where Ruth Hetchcote was concerned. It was no part of his intention to let her escape him entirely. However, engrossing his current affair might be he usually gave some thought to Ruth's pride, but not this night. Jim, looking on with a frown, could not bear the stricken look on Ruth's face.

"Howard, do run and get me a drink," murmured Miss Helen Sanders, who had again strolled out to the verandah between dances. "A champagne cocktail, if you can find such a thing in these parts," she went on languidly. "It's not anything except that perfectly atrocious concoction your floor committee calls punch."

Howard laughed. "I'm practically there and halfway back with a champagne cocktail, beautiful."

He erred slightly, because he had not expected to be buttonholed outside the bar by Jim Phillips. "Heaven knows why," said Jim, grimly, "but you can wreck Ruth Hetchcote's evening without half trying."

"And what's that to you?" inquired Howard.

"Just this," snapped Jim, "you're going over there to ask her to dance or I'll push your face in. Remember all the mean tricks you used to play on me when I was a caddy and you could get away with it? If you think it wouldn't give me the greatest amount of satisfaction for the least amount of trouble to ruin your fascinating countenance, you're all wet."

The small silver tray on which Miss Helen Sanders' cocktail reposed quivered slightly in Howard's grasp. "I'm not afraid of you," he said thickly. "Of course I'll dance with Ruth. I meant to all along."

"I'll deliver the cocktail," said Jim curtly. "You're going to walk right along beside me like a little man and dance with Ruth. It's now or a punch in the jaw."

"Not make me sick," said Howard peevishly.

Nevertheless he carried out instructions with Jim at his elbow. Miss Helen Sanders was still leaning against the railing of the verandah, staring pensively at a silver-gilt moon shining radiantly high in a mauve sky when Jim, with a flourish that was pure bravado, presented her with one cocktail.

"Oh, it's you!" she murmured and eyed him with listless composure. "Do you combine hopping tables along with your other duties at the Club?" she inquired.

Jim flushed. "You'd be surprised. I even double as official bouncer if necessary."

Helen Sanders arched her delicate eyebrows. "So I've been stood up. It's a unique experience."

"I can well believe it," said Jim, and then to his shocked dismay he heard himself going on, "I'm the worst dancer, but you might find me possible as a substitute in a pinch."

There was a prolonged silence in which Jim's heart pounded painfully. "Aren't you being unforgettingly pre-emptory?" asked Miss Sanders in a cool, sweet voice, the essence of disdain. "Surely even in comic little towns like this the hired help do not mingle with their superiors."

Back at his old observation post he lit one cigarette after another and smoked them with vicious speed. He told himself that it was the best thing which could have happened.

It was almost an hour later, and to Jim it seemed a year or two, when he heard hesitating footsteps behind him and a slender hand touched his arm.

"It develops I've made a particularly nasty blunder," murmured Miss Helen Sanders, in a voice that angels might have employed. "Miss Hetchme you have scruples like Berenice's Bill."

"It's partly that," admitted Janet with a shrug, "and partly that I have more expensive habits now than I can afford."

Berenice scowled and glanced at the score pad on the table. "Speaking of expensive habits," she said, "total up and give us the bad news."

"But we haven't finished the last rubber," protested Sue Berry.

Berenice glanced at the small electric clock on the slender console table in the entry. "Bill will be here in half an hour. Sorry, here're your hats."

Goodness I'm not hitched to a flat tire.

Berenice flushed. "Bill's all right," she said loyally, "only he has old ideas."

"Sue's high," announced Lou Fletcher. "You owe her sixty-five cents, Berenice. I'm a quarter loser. Here it is."

Berenice fished a handful of coins from her purse. "The Berry family will have steak for supper," announced Sue, cheerfully pocketing her winnings.

"And here's where I set Bill down to another can of pork and beans," said Berenice.

"Have a hard day?" asked Janet.

"No more than usual," said Anne and laughed. "Mrs. Henry Leigh was in looking for a dinner dress. I turned the stock over for her, but nothing suited."

"It makes me sick, your having to grin and bear people like that!" cried Janet. "It would be different if you weren't a hundred times more refined than a Priscilla Leigh or her mother will ever be!"

Anne flung her daughter a startled glance. "I don't mind being patronized by Jennie Leigh, Janet. I knew her when she lived with her folks back of their meat market and thought it polite to pass the toothpicks to company. Not that she does not deserve words of credit for the way she toned down her rough edges after she married Henry. Only she knows I know about them and that's why she can't keep from trying to impress me with the fact that I may have been born to the purple, but it's she who's wearing it now, tra la."

CHAPTER IV

"It depends on what you want out of life," said Anne. "She was never the least in love with Henry. She was supposed to be quite wild about a young man who worked in her father's butcher shop. I think he's still working in somebody's butcher shop, although I doubt if Jennie Leigh has thought of him in years."

"There you are," muttered Janet, recalling Berenice. "Love doesn't last. In a year or so it doesn't matter whether you married for love or not, because if you did by then all the thrill has gone out like a light."

"The thrill didn't go out," said her mother with a catch in her voice.

Janet drew a long breath as if she had been granted a reprieve. "It did not for you, did it?" she asked unsteadily.

"Never."

Anne laid her hand over her daughter's and Janet clung to it. "Thanks for being you," she whispered.

There were tears on her cheeks. Something has struck at her emotional roots, thought Anne and had a fierce desire to gather Janet into her arms and protect her from everything which menaced her.

"How about a little food for the man of the house?" shouted Jim, flinging open the front door.

Anne was astonished to find that it was dark. "Heavena," she cried, staring to her feet. "We should all be starved!"

However no one betrayed an appetite although there was a delicious aspic salad and a plate of cold roast beef and baked potatoes which Janet had scooped out and mashed and then set back in their shells at the last minute to brown with paprika and cheese. Jim usually ate as if his long, gaunt body were hollow, but not on this occasion.

"I met Howard's newest girl friend this afternoon," he announced abruptly.

"Helen Sanders?" inquired Janet.

Her brother nodded. Anne looked at him quickly. Jim was red clear down inside the collar of his soft blue shirt.

"Priscilla says that Helen is the prettiest girl and the worst snob that ever lived," remarked Janet.

"She's—spelled that who needs a good going over with a bundle of sticks," muttered Jim, but he still did not meet Anne's eye.

"Hi, Jim!" exclaimed a small piping voice from the direction of the rear porch. "Come and get me!"

There was a prolonged silence in which Jim's heart pounded painfully. "Aren't you being unforgettingly pre-emptory?" asked Miss Sanders in a cool, sweet voice, the essence of disdain. "Surely even in comic little towns like this the hired help do not mingle with their superiors."

Back at his old observation post he lit one cigarette after another and smoked them with vicious speed. He told himself that it was the best thing which could have happened.

It was almost an hour later, and to Jim it seemed a year or two, when he heard hesitating footsteps behind him and a slender hand touched his arm.

"It develops I've made a particularly nasty blunder," murmured Miss Helen Sanders, in a voice that angels might have employed. "Miss Hetch-

Hints for the Household

Conducted By Betty Barclay

PUNICS AHEAD!
 Sunny days and balmy breezes bring the subject of picnics almost automatically to mind. The prospect of public and private holidays and Saturdays and Sundays coming every week as well, make the summer an open season for picnics. Whether you regard them as sports events, social activity or just relaxation, food seems to be the main ingredient for a successful one. From a simple menu consisting of sandwiches and fresh fruit to an elaborate spread including salads and cold drinks, the travelling ability of the "eats" must be considered first. Don't include anything that can't stand a few bumps and perhaps some crowding or that will perish too quickly. Here are two recipes, cookies and small cakes, that fill all the requirements of the picnic basket.

1/2 teaspoon salt
 1/2 cup butter or other shortening
 1/2 cup sugar
 1 egg yolk, beaten well
 3 tablespoons milk
 1 square unsweetened chocolate, melted

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift again. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Add egg yolk and beat well. Add flour, alternately with milk, mixing well after each addition. Divide dough in two parts. To one part, add chocolate and blend. Chill until firm enough to roll. Roll each half into rectangular sheet, 1/4-inch thick; place plain sheet over chocolate sheet. Roll as for jelly roll. Chill overnight, or until firm enough to slice. Cut in 1/4-inch slices. Bake on ungreased baking sheet in hot oven (400° F.) 5 minutes, or until done. Makes 3 1/2 dozen pin wheels. These rolls, when carefully wrapped in waxed paper, may be kept in refrigerator for several days, and baked as desired.

Chocolate Marguerites
 1/2 cup sifted cake flour
 1/2 teaspoon each soda and salt
 1/2 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
 2 eggs, well beaten
 3 tablespoons butter
 1 1/4 squares unsweetened chocolate, melted

1 cup finely cut pecans
 Sift flour once, measure, add soda and salt, and sift together three times. Beat sugar gradually into beaten eggs. Melt butter with chocolate and add to egg mixture; blend. Add flour gradually; mix nuts. Turn into greased small fancy pans. Place pecans half on each. Bake in moderate oven (375° F.) 10 minutes. Makes 2 dozen.

TWO SIMPLE DINNER MENUS
 Are you looking for a "different" dinner menu, simple enough to please your pocketbook and good enough to please your guests? Here are two—recipes for the suggested Lima bean dishes:

Boiled salmon—egg sauce; mashed potatoes; Limas in tomato sauce; lettuce salad and deep dish apple pie.
Tomato soup; Lima loaf—baked potatoes; buttered beets; cottage pudding with caramel sauce.

Limas in Tomato Sauce
 2 cups cooked, dried Limas
 1 tablespoon finely chopped onion
 1 tablespoon butter or bacon fat
 1/2 teaspoon salt

Maple Delight
 1 rennet tablet
 1 tablespoon cold water
 1 pint milk (not canned or soft curd)
 1/2 cup maple syrup

Make rennet-curd according to directions in package, using three tablespoons maple syrup in place of sugar and vanilla. Then chill in refrigerator. Before serving, top each dish of rennet-curd with a tablespoon of maple syrup.

Honey-Nut Rennet-Curd
 1 rennet tablet
 1 tablespoon cold water
 1 pint milk (not canned or soft curd)
 3 tablespoons honey
 1/2 cup pecans

Chop pecans and divide among 5 or 6 dessert glasses. Dissolve the rennet tablet by crushing in cold water. Add honey to milk in top of double boiler and warm slowly, stirring constantly, to be sure honey blends with milk. Test a drop on inside of wrist frequently. When comfortably warm (130° F.) not hot, remove at once from stove. Add dissolved rennet tablet and stir quickly for a few seconds only. Pour at once, while still liquid, over the nuts. Do not move until firm—about 10 minutes. Chill in refrigerator. When ready to serve

MODERN WOMEN
CHARL ORMOND WILLIAMS
 President of National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc.

Women of the western hemisphere are concerned about their representation at the Inter-American Peace Conference to be held in July in Buenos Aires. They are especially interested in the possibility of the adoption or revision of treaties framed at The Hague Conference nearly thirty years ago. Feminist leaders are requesting that women delegates be sent to the South American gathering. Their point is, that unless women sit in at the July convention, only one-half of the American population will be represented.

Two Japanese high school girls have written letters to pupils in the United States with the hope of establishing friendship with their sisters here, and to give them a better understanding of Japan's ideas and goals. The letters, selected from 250 written by students in the 990 high schools in Japan, are a part of the work for peace undertaken by the Women's Peace Association of Japan which Mrs. Tsune Gauntlett is president. Mrs. Gauntlett believes that the hope of peace lies with the youth of the world.

Women's clubs are an important factor in keeping motion pictures Jean Mary Knight told recently of her women's organizations in Hollywood which all in judgment are new screen offerings. The nine represent a variety of interests and religious beliefs. Their unofficial representative in the film city is Mrs. Nathalie Bucknall.

A Women's Chamber of Commerce has been organized in Talladega, Alabama. This probably the first of its kind. The president, Mrs. I. W. Elliott, will start a campaign for civic improvement.

The World of Wheat
 H. G. L. Strange,
 Director, Research Department,
 Sears Grain Company, Ltd.

Hitler's invasion and occupation of several countries has deprived Canada and other wheat exporting areas of valuable wheat markets. Some people, however, have jumped to the conclusion because of this, that apart from Gt. Britain Canada has hardly any wheat markets now left.

A study of the Board of Grain Commissioners' official report for the last crop year, however, reveals that Canada exported 160 million bushels of wheat to 46 different countries of the world. By the action of Germany, Canada has now lost the wheat and flour markets of six of these countries, which six last year took between them just over 31 million bushels of Canadian wheat, but Canada, still retains the markets of 40 different countries, in addition to Great Britain, and Ireland, and these 40 countries last year took from Canada a total of 37 million bushels of wheat.

There are, I believe, good reasons, too, for expecting that these 40 markets, and Great Britain herself, will take, during this coming year, considerably more wheat and flour from us than they did last year. It can be said, therefore, that Canada has many overseas wheat markets still available to her.

Following factors have tended to raise prices: Britain recently purchased 50 million bushels of Canadian wheat — Crops in north-western France have been seriously damaged by military operations — A serious grasshopper infestation is reported in south-western Saskatchewan — Indications of severe rust epidemic reported in U.S. winter wheat belt.

Following factors have tended to lower price: An improvement is shown in latest moisture reports for Western Canada — German army commences huge offensive in France — Conditions in U.S. spring wheat belt are excellent — Further beneficial rains received in U.S. winter wheat belt — Planting of corn in the Balkans has made good progress.

An addition is being built to the home of Mr. Ed Moore on Eighth Avenue west.

BORN.—To Mr. and Mrs. A. Redmond, on Tuesday, June 11th, at the Wainwright Municipal Hospital, a boy.

During the electrical storm last week, a valuable horse belonging to Mr. Dick McNern was struck by lightning and killed.

It is unsafe and unwise to drive a car that is not fully insured. Joe Welch, insurance.

Mr. A. Kristensen is now employed at the Boverman Garage.

Mr. Doug. Wallace has been spending several days with his family in town, prior to leaving to join the medical corps of the air force.

Mr. Bob Milton, of Fabyan, has been a patient at the hospital during the past week.

You will most likely be planning to take a motor trip this summer and will need car insurance. You can buy a 6-months' policy now and protect yourself until this date in December, practically as cheap. Most companies will not sell a policy to cover a trip for less than six months. All particulars free. Joe Welch, car insurance.

Miss Jean McNern, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. McNern, of Oil Edge, who has been attending school in the East, returned home to spend the holidays with her parents.

For that added essentiality, take your shoes to the O.K. Shoe Repair, Main Street. The price above all else, is pleasing. Harness repaired like new.

The DIAL REVIEW by Walter Davis

Psychology is a round-mouthed, scary-sounding word, but the results of its study are simple and obvious. Carlton E. Morse, author of the radio serial, "One Man's Family", shows his deep knowledge of the subject in every broadcast. All the reactions common to normal, every-day middle-class families are pictured vividly and entertainingly in his wonderful story. He doesn't have to resort to man-over-cliff endings to keep you tuning in from one week to another. The everyday doings of the Barbour family resemble the home life of us all so intimately that we revel even in the small-talk sessions between the members of the famous radio family. That is the genius of Carlton Morse—knowing the human mind well enough to understand that action which hits home and has a familiar ring is more intensely interesting than bloody murder and daring adventure. That's the reason "One Man's Family", heard from CJCA Sundays at 5.30 p.m., continues to top radio polls as the most popular dramatic serial on the air.

Another excellent drama which specializes in the emotional interest rather than the blood-and-thunder action, "The Man I Married", heard Monday through Friday from CJCA. It is considered another step ahead in the calibre of radio drama, and could well be studied by ambitious writers eager to prepare radio plays.

Tuned in on Dr. Query from Winnipeg Wednesday last from CJCA, and was again impressed with the superiority of Canadian quiz shows. While the American stations go in for odd, sensational type questions, the Canadian outlets add more of the educational touch. Dr. Query's questions are extremely well chosen—and the M.C. at his enough, however, to keep the program from becoming dry.

Studio Sidelights.
CJCA staff members pasting War Saving Stamps on pay day. Mr. Elphick, station manager, appointed chairman of the publicity committee for the sale of War Savings Certificates in Northern Alberta. Esther Naim, traffic director, studying CBC releases daily so that no important broadcasts can be missed. SYDENHAM

To this district is being added a new refinery, under the leadership of four men, all of whom are well known in the Sydenham district. It is situated one-half mile west and one-half mile north of what was once the "Associated Refinery". It is now being constructed and will be known as the "MacDonald Refinery" when it commences operations shortly.

Mr. J. Fralick and Mr. B. Shaw are hauling gravel to the new plant this week.

Ken Hutchinson travelled to the city over the week end. Many would like to begin playing ball again this summer. How about it, gang?

Mr. and Mrs. Jack McLennon are home again after helping their uncle, Mr. Chas. McLennon, with the spring work.

Wednesday, June 19th, will be a happy day for many high school students, when their exams are completed on that date and vacation days begin!
